MBA degree is an international qualification in business management!

MBA is a special status, an elite international degree that will help to gain recognition from the professional community. On the other hand, it is an excellent platform for a successful career and a decent salary.

MBA gives qualitative knowledge in the field of business or company management in any sphere, forms practical skills in solving complex management tasks. Moreover, young specialists get a good basis for their future managerial career, and experienced managers get an opportunity to review their methods and approaches to management and master new ones.

The knowledge and skills that a specialist gets when studying for an MBA relate to various areas of modern business. The core of the program consists of subjects that develop key skills for business: analytical thinking (accounting, economic policy, operations research, statistics, etc.), professional skills (financial management, HR-management, operations management, etc.) and ethics (business ethics, corporate governance, etc.). The training also includes a large number of additional courses, each school has its own set of such disciplines - international finance, entrepreneurship, project management, the art of negotiation, etc.
